WVU Spring Break Service-Learning Course:
International Educational Issues in Jamaica

Course Title: International Educational Issues

Course Location: Petersfield Jamaica

Academic Instructor: Ahmed Abdulai

Course Description

The course will examine international educational issues as they pertain to communities in less-developing locations. Through an integrated one week academic intensive experience in rural Jamaica, students will gain an understanding of the complexity of education and creative solutions in less resourced settings. Students will complete a service project identified by the Association of Clubs at one of the local community schools. It is estimated the students will complete 15 hours of service.
