

Susan B. Anthony, PT, is an Associate Professor at WVU in the Physical Therapy Program and is currently a PhD student in the Educational Psychology Program also at WVU. She received the Innovative Teaching Award in 2007 and 2008 for implementing unique teaching strategies. She was instrumental in developing a rotation for junior students in a skilled nursing facility. She also contributed to a course redesign for the introduction to rehabilitation which included multi media health outreach program. She also developed a course evaluation plan which charts the effectiveness of feedback. She is the author of 2 textbooks which focus on basic and applied research skills.